JUDGES ALL OVER NATION USE INJUNCTIONS TO DEAL BLOWS AT ORGANIZED LABOR

By International Labor News Service

DAUGHERTY'S injunction sets the fashion—they're all doing it now! No, this is not the title of an "Injunction Blues" song. It merely states what the courts have been doing since Attorney General Daugherty's infamous injunction against the railroad shopmen was made permanent at Chicago by Federal Judge Wilkerson.

Seemingly encouraged by Judge Wilkerson's decision, judges in various States are apparently striving to see who can issue the most drastic injunction against workmen. They seem to have made up their minds they won't be beaten by Wilkerson, and so far most of them are running neck and neck with the Chicago jurist, while one or two are a lap ahead.

First to begin the race was a fellow Federal judge of Wilkerson's, Judge Carpenter, who issued an injunction at Chicago prohibiting officers of the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union from attempting to unionize the open shops in the Windy City.

The injunction was granted to Mitchell Brothers, whose attorney gleefully announced that the decree was similar to the Daugherty injunction in "effectiveness."

Georgia Judge Follows Suit

Not to be outdone by Chicago, a Georgia judge, D. W. Blair, issued an injunction restraining members of the International Molders' Union at Rome, Ga., from even attempting to induce molders employed at a Rome stove foundry from joining the union!

The molders had been virtually all organized at the foundry, when the firm learned of the fact and discharged the men who had joined the union. The foreman of the shop threatened to shoot the discharged workers, flourishing a revolver to emphasize his threat, and some of the non-union men employed to take the places of the unionists also made threats to kill. Yet with a knowledge of these facts before him, Judge Blair issued an injunction, restrain-ing the union molders, among other things, from:

"Interfering with or attempting to interfere with the plaintiff's employees for the purpose of inducing them to join a labor union without the consent of the plaintiff; from persuading, urging, or encouraging the plaintiff's employees to join a labor union, and thereby violate their contract of employment with petitioner; from endeavoring by threats, menaces, violence, intimidation, representation, or promises of better pay, shorter hours, or better conditions, to induce plaintiff's employees to leave the services of plaintiff."

After reading the text of this injunction, it is not hard to understand why workers, both white and colored, are leaving the State of Georgia by the tens of thousands.

Courts Haven't Last Word

This point is touched upon by John P. Frey, editor of the International Molders' Journal, who comments upon Judge Blair's injunction as follows:

"It has been amply demonstrated by the country's industrial history that injunctions can not make men work, and it is also being demonstrated that injunctions do make men think, and that thinking makes men act collectively to protect their rights. A judge sitting upon the bench, by a stroke of a pen, may enjoin men from endeavoring to organize their fellow men, when these happen to be trade-unionists; but this stroke of the pen in this land of free men is not the last word, and cannot be made so.

"A molder's right to organize and solicit membership is in every way equivalent to the right of a Chamber of Commerce, a Kiwanis or a Rotary Club, or any other organization, to solicit membership when the purpose of organizing is to improve the member's welfare through lawful means, and we have yet to read a judicial decision which held that peaceful persuasion, promises of better pay, shorter hours, or better conditions, were unlawful methods.

"Judge Blair's injunction may be considered of temporary advantage to the foundrymen who discharged their molders because they had become members of our organization, but the decision is an injury to the State of Georgia, and an irreparable injury if the position taken by Judge Blair is to be followed by other courts, because, among other things, it will serve to drive competent mechanics out of the State more effectively than the advantage taken of negroes has already served to drive many thousands of them into other portions of the country. The court as a lawfully created judicial institution, is entitled to respect; a decision of the court which gives to employers rights and privileges which are denied to wage-earners is not entitled to respect, because it definitely sets aside well-established, definitely understood constitutional rights."

But it remained for a California judge to issue the prize injunction, which abolished trial by jury in certain cases and left Daugherty's best effort far in the rear of the injunction race. It was a temporary decree, but its loving friends hope to see it join the ranks of the "We're here to stay" injunctions.

Court Sole Judge of Guilt

The California decree was the work of Superior Judge Charles O. Busick, of Sacramento county, who issued a State-wide injunction under which membership in the I. W. W., or affiliated bodies, will be construed as contempt of court punishable by six months' imprisonment without a jury trial. The injunction was made valid in every county in the State and any superior court was given jurisdiction.

Observe the beauty of this injunction. If you are brought before a court on the charge of being a member of the I. W. W., the judge will be sole master of your fate. You may never have heard of the I. W. W., let alone being a member of the organization, but if the judge doesn't like your face, he can send you to jail for six months. Neat, eh? As the New York World says:

"California has a criminal syndicalism law passed chiefly against the Industrial Workers of the World, but much difficulty has been found in the enforcement of the statute because of the old-fashioned assumption that the prosecution must prove its case in court. * * A judge has been induced to issue an injunction under which mere membership in the I. W. W. can be interpreted as contempt of court and punished by six months' imprisonment. There will be no necessity then of a jury trial. No necessity of proving anything, in fact, because the matter of membership will rest on the discretion of the judge who does the punishing.

"If the injunction is made permanent it will be valid in every county, and any Superior Court will have jurisdiction. Mr. Daugherty himself has never evolved a more simple solution of economic problems than that. If there is discontented radical labor in California, send it to jail for contempt of court. Then it will come out of jail satisfied and happy and duly impressed with the State's sense of inherent justice—perhaps.

"New York long ago recovered from its attack of Luskism, but California is still delirious, and is raving."

California, however, does not boast the only court which is aiming blows at the right to trial by jury. Simultaneously with Judge Wilkerson's decision making permanent the Daugherty injunction, the United States Court of Appeals at Chicago held that erstwhile shopmen and their union leaders who were cited for contempt in the district court for violation of the injunction may not have the benefit of a jury trial.

What Befell an Editor

As various parts of the country come to the front with injunctions against workmen, New Mexico distinguishes herself by permitting a judge to send an editor to jail for attacking a political ring in San Miguel county.

The editor is Carl C. Magee, of the New Mexico Tribune of Albuquerque, who has been fighting the political ring for two years. He made mild criticism of a judge in Santa Fe county, and for this was indicted and convicted for libel in San Miguel county. He charges he was convicted before a jury not one of whom could read English.

Sentenced to from one year to eighteen months in the penitentiary, Magee protested in his paper against the methods of the court and was repeatedly cited for contempt, the last time being sentenced to 360 days.

Fortunately, New Mexico has a governor who recognized that Magee was a victim of judicial usurpation and he pardoned the editor of both the libel and contempt charges, declared that in his opinion Magee had been persecuted, not prosecuted, and that the convictions had been a disgrace to the State.

New Mexico's sister State of Arizona enjoys the benefits of another kind of injunction, just issued by Federal Judge Erskine in California, restraining the Arizona minimum wage commission from enforcing the Arizona minimum wage law. The United States Supreme Court decision declaring unconstitutional the District of Columbia minimum wage law was cited by the judge to sustain his injunction. The legal reasoning may be all right, but advocates of the minimum wage law point out it doesn't help the women workers of Arizona.

Kentucky in Limelight, Too

Kentucky falls into line with a decree, which though merely comic, shows the growing tendency to turn to a judge to remedy all ills by injunction. John Alton, 65, was the victim, being enjoined from marrying, visiting or even talking to a mountain woman whom he had come all the way from Minnesota to see. The excuse for the injunction was that the woman had a little money and Alton was suspected of being more interested in the money than in the lady herself.

This outline of recent injunction cases has not mentioned other assaults by the courts on organized labor, such as the recent decision of the Washington State Supreme Court that unions are liable for damages suffered during strikes, a decision which is being vigorously fought by the Washington State Federation of Labor. Anti-labor court decisions have recently also been given in Wisconsin and other States.

And so it goes. As the workmen and farmers of Minnesota, watched with approval by the rest of the nation, demonstrate their desire for progress in government and industry by electing Magnus Johnson to the United States Senate, the courts strike blows at liberty and freedom all over the nation. The tide of judicial tyranny and usurpation is rising. Where will it end?

A LESSON IN RAILROAD VALUATION

The recent sale of a controlling interest in the Pittsburgh & West Virginia Railroad to New York banking and coal interests affords an excellent illustration of the difference between the "original investment" and the "cost of reproduction" theories of railroad valuation.

The Pittsburgh & West Virginia Railroad runs from Pittsburgh Junction into the rich West Virginia coal fields. It operates 86 miles of track, of which it owns 64 miles outright.

On the "cost of reproduction" theory the company claims its property is worth $48,035,461, and it demands that rates shall be fixed at a figure which shall enable it to earn dividends on that sum.

Only recently the Metropolitan Insurance Company sold a controlling interest in this road to W. A. Harriman and Clarence E. Tuttle, New York bankers. The new owners purchased 25,000 of the company's 30,000 common shares at $65 each, and 7,500 of the 9,000 preferred shares at $90 each.

At these prices every share of stock could have been taken over for $27,500,000, which is $20,500,000 less than the company is claiming on the basis of reproduction costs.

Here is an instance where a railroad is sold outright for 60 per cent of its so-called "reproduction cost."

In fixing the value of this road, shall the Interstate Commerce Commission be guided by what Harriman and Tuttle actually paid for the property or by the fantastic estimates of engineers as to what it would cost to reproduce it?

Be sure of the foundation of your life. Know why you live as you do. Be ready to give a reason for it. Do not, in such a matter as life, build an opinion or custom on what you guess is true. Make it a matter of certainty and science.—Thomas Starr King.

THE GREATEST MENACE TO AMERICA

By BASIL M. MANLY, Director, People's Legislative Service

THE greatest menace to the national prosperity and general welfare of the United States is not bolshevism. It is not socialism. It is not capitalism. It is not imperialism. It is the alarming decline of American agriculture and the astounding migration from the farms to the cities.

Official figures of the Department of Agriculture disclose the fact that two million persons moved from American farms to American cities during the year 1922.

This is greater than the total populations of the six States—Arizona, New Mexico, Montana, Nevada, Utah and Wyoming.

It is twice as great as the flood of immigration which used to pour into the United States annually from Europe before the bars were put up.

It is probably the greatest movement of population in the history of the world.

The Department of Agriculture says that it was in part offset by a movement of 880,000 from the cities to the farms, so that the net loss to agriculture was only 1,200,000. But this is in part an illusion, because all experience has shown that only a small proportion of those who go from the cities to the country remain there permanently, while it is notorious that the rural population when once engulfed in the city's maelstrom seldom returns to the farm.

Moreover this enormous movement from the cities to the farms merely emphasizes the condition of unrest and dissatisfaction which exists in all parts of the United States among the producing population.

The farmers are going to the cities because they have been bankrupted and rendered destitute by the deflation of agriculture, and because they imagine they can improve their lot in the industrial centers. For the past five years they have been fed on false propaganda about the huge wages paid to railroad and industrial workers. They have not been told these high wages, so far as they are true, apply only to a handful of exceptionally skilled or unusually situated workmen, and that the vast majority have not earned enough in the past two years to pay for the subsistence of their families on even the miserable standards to which they are accustomed.

A fair sample of this lying propaganda appeared in the newspapers recently. Big headlines announced, "Coke Workers Use Airplane to Go to Work." The small type underneath told how one alleged coke worker had bought an airplane, but intimated that it was likely to become a habit among the coke workers because they were earning such big money. Lowell Mellett, one of the most experienced and reliable reporters in the United States, went to the coke regions to investigate. He discovered the truth. The general superintendent of one of the coke companies, an Englishman formerly in the air service, had bought an airplane. But, according to Mellett's story, the real coke-workers, the poor devils who pull the flaming coke from the ovens ten to twelve hours a day, are almost in destitution because they lost their strike for better conditions last year.

There are today probably a million farmers and white-collar workers, who read the original story and did not read Mellett's exposure, who believe that if they could just get a job in the coke industry they would soon be on easy street and own an airplane or at least a Rolls-Royce.

Poor dupes of a perverted press!

Although the farmers have been thus grossly deceived regarding city conditions, this is not the fundamental cause of their migration. They had to move. Millions were utterly ruined by the crash of agricultural prices in 1920 and 1921. In county after county, in the Northwest and South particularly, more than half of the farms were sold for taxes. Page after page of the county weeklies during the past year have been filled with tax sale notices of once prosperous farms.

Think of it! Men and women past middle age, thrifty and industrious, who counted themselves worth ten, twenty, thirty thousand dollars in 1919, sold out for taxes in 1922 and evicted from their old homes. Where could they go? To the poorhouse, to the insecure and bitter life of a farm laborer, or to the city. So hundreds of thousands, facing this miserable choice, have sold their little furniture and the few personal effects they were able to save from the wreck of bankruptcy and have come to the city.

For the present at least, in the high tide of an industrial boom, the city may absorb them. But what of the future? What will happen when the factories, responding to the dwindling demand from the country for manufactured products, begin to bank their fires and cut millions from their pay-rolls without a day's notice?

Then there will be unemployment and distress, far worse than we knew in 1920, when 5,000,000 men and women were out of work. It will be worse even than the dark days of the "hungry nineties," when the jobless roamed the streets, hunting work at any price, and there were soup kitchens in every city. It will be worse for this reason: In the nineties, though factories were closed down, food was cheap and a few pennies would feed a family. Now, when the full effects of this agricultural migration are felt, food will be scarce and dear. What a tragedy that will be! Millions of men out of work and food selling at famine prices, because the countryside has been deserted by farmers seeking to better their lives in the cities.

Ask the people of Moscow and Vienna what this means. They know.

This movement from the farms to the cities is, therefore, particularly a menace to the worker in the city factories and on the railroads. It is a greater menace than the now nearly defunct "open-shop" drive. It is a greater menace than unrestricted immigration.

The industrial workers have succeeded in checking the deluge of foreign immigration, but what of this greater tide that is moving from the country to the cities? It cannot be checked by putting up the bars, by passing immigration laws, establishing "quotas" and "selective tests."

It can be checked in only one way. That is by restoring agricultural prosperity, by stabilizing prices at a decent level, by making the farm a place where a man can settle down to a life of industry with the assurance that if he produces the crops which the nation needs, he will receive enough for them to enable him to buy enough of the city's products to support his family in health and reasonable comfort and give the children an education.

This cannot be accomplished by the absurd method, which the Harding administration has made notoriously famous, of enabling the already bankrupt farmers to plunge further into debt. It cannot be accomplished by agricultural conferences like that which Secretary of Agriculture Wallace called last year, which was dominated by such agricultural authorities as Julius H. Barnes, grain gambler, and President of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce; J. Ogden Armour, the Wall Street bankers and the railroad presidents. It cannot be accomplished by any kind of fake legislation.

Only radical measures will be effective. We must go down to the roots of the trouble. That is what "radical" means.

What are the roots of this trouble? They lie in the monstrous system of distribution, which we have allowed to grow up in America, where the farmer gets only 37 cents out of every dollar that the city worker pays for farm products, while the city worker gets only 30 cents out of every dollar that the farmer pays for factory goods.

Thus the farmer and the city worker have one common enemy. That enemy is the monopolistic group which owns, controls and operates this monstrous system of distribution. By combinations, by consolidations, by price agreements, by manipulation of markets, by restriction of production, by stock watering, by multiplication of middlemen, by every device through which an additional dollar or penny of profit can be squeezed out between the producer and the consumer, they have created this frightful condition. They are destroying the American nation by draining off its substance in the form of profits to be squandered in wastefully luxurious living or in the promotion of imperialistic exploitation in other countries.

This system must be destroyed and a new system of cooperative distribution, for service and not for profit, must be built in its place. This is a huge undertaking, but it is far less difficult in its essential elements than the organization of this nation for the Great War.

The farmers alone cannot accomplish it. They do not have the power, either politically or economically. They must have the help of the industrial workers. By this I mean the workers not only in the factories, but also on the railroads and in the mines, wherever men earn their living by performing useful service. I mean not only the manual workers, but also the so-called "brain workers," whose supineness in the face of their continued exploitation raises a serious question as to whether they have any brains. I mean, in fact, all those Americans who do not share in the gains of this monstrous system which converts two-thirds of every producer's dollar either into profits or into waste.

I do not believe that this can be accomplished at one great stroke. The world cannot be made over in a day. But I do believe that it can be accomplished within a relatively short period of years by a series of carefully planned and wisely administered measures, that will move forward step by step toward the ultimate goal.

Immediately, and perhaps from time to time during this period of progress toward a real industrial democracy, it may be necessary to put into force what the cynics are pleased to call "paternalistic measures," such, for example, as stabilization of prices by government purchase and sale of a part of the crops. But why shrink from the word "paternalism"? A wise father strives to make all his children self-reliant and self-supporting. But if through misfortune or even through misdoing, some of them suffer reverses, he does not leave them to save themselves, and thus endanger the spirit and welfare of the whole family. No, the wise father goes to their rescue and helps them get back on their feet.

Just so this great nation, seeing its children of the countryside in distress, the prey of money sharks, grain gamblers and other parasites, should go to their rescue and give them every assistance not only to restore their independence and prosperity, but also to build for the future on a stabler foundation and with wiser plans than they have ever known before.

Pitiful and Childish

It is a pitiful and sickening sight to see some of the humans we come across every day, especially those who are paying the bitter price for their betrayal of others. Also it is sometimes amusing to listen to some of the childish and feeble excuses they offer us. Here is how a Representative of the Brotherhood relates a few of these:

—and I met an old fellow who scabbed during the strike last year; his feathers were wet and dirty. He was weak and worn and looked badly discouraged. He had over 24 years continuous service and just before he reached his pension time he was laid off and has been off ever since. He seems brokenhearted over it. This outfit also pays a bonus after one year of continuous service, and he told me of four other scabs who were recently laid off just before their bonus was due. They were later hired again as new men and no doubt will be laid off again just before the next bonus is due.

Yes, I've heard about your Union, said a wireman I met today, and I am just as good a Union man at heart as any of you guys. That's probably true, brother, I said, and no doubt the rest of the men in your shop feel the same way about it and are also good Union men at heart. But I'm not out here organizing a Heart Union. If I were the Electrical Workers would soon become about the biggest Union in the world, for think of the thousands like you whose "hearts" are right—think of the thousands who would flock to us if it didn't cost them anything. No, my friend, I told him, this heart business doesn't mean anything, and it takes something besides "heart action" along with a little money to better conditions in this town. And this idea of being a Union man at "heart" appears to me to be just another way of saying that you are willing to accept all the benefits we produce but you are not willing to help pay for them.

He soon agreed with me that it was his head that was the cause of his trouble and that he would join us and help me line up the rest of the men in the same shop.

As I approached another fellow and said, Friend, do you belong to the Electrical Workers? I could see his lips curl up like a dog getting ready to bite. No, and I don't want to talk to you or anyone else about the outfit. Why not? What's been the trouble? Well, I got out because I was sick of the way the last strike was being run and I will never go back until they change their procedure and get rid of B——, the guy who has been running things to suit himself. I agreed that everything had not gone as it should; that mistakes had been made; otherwise I would not be out here trying to get matters in shape. But, I said, how does anybody know that your method of procedure would have been any better? Remember, there were quite a number of you fellows on strike—and they tell me you talked and voted for it against the advice of the International—and nearly everyone had a different idea of about how it should be conducted; and what a nice mess it would have been had all ideas been employed. Personally I am inclined to believe your local officers did the best they could with what they had to work with. And as to getting rid of B——, you say you are as good a Union man as he.

Hell, yes, he snapped back. Well, that may or may not be true. All I know is that he stuck and you didn't; he kept on fighting and you ran away. Anyhow I want you to show what kind of a Union man you are by signing this application and then by fighting to have things go as you think they should. Not on your life, he shot back. I am done paying $3.50 a month for you guys to have a hell-of-a-good time on.—And they kill a man like Lincoln.

Some queer specimens roam this earth. Yesterday I saw a fellow who was loaded down like a truck horse, going down the street at a rapid gait, with a bag of tools in one hand, a sack of porcelain and a stepladder in the other, and coils of wire and loom hanging around his neck and both arms. At first I felt like calling the offices of the Humane society, but instead I trailed him to the end of his long journey. He took great pains to tell me he was a Union man through and through, but there was one thing he did not like. Well, what is it? I inquired. Why the Union asked me to buy Union-made goods, and it ain't none of their business what I buy or where I buy it.

But don't get the impression I am meeting with nothing but discouragement, for I am not. I am coming across lots of fellows who need no coaxing at all. They have just been too indifferent to come to the office or meeting to join—they have only been waiting for some one to call on them. Then, too, some of them freely express their shame because they are not in. One frankly said: I am really ashamed of myself for not being a member before this, for I know you boys have done a whole lot for everybody in the game, in spite of all your blunders and mistakes. Sometimes some of us think things are bad, but I hate to think what they would be if there had been no Union.

I remember another one whose conscience seemed to be troubling him, for he said: You know I have somehow always felt like a damned slacker. I haven't been paying a cent, yet I've been getting nearly everything that you fellows have. Lately I've been thinking that this is worse than scabbing, and I'm going to try to now make up for my past carelessness.

Still another one said: Yes, I guess you are right, a man's duty to the Union is more important than his dislikes for certain individuals, and I suppose I can't make things better by staying out. I see my place is on the inside and to help run things as they should be run; guess I have been a damned sorehead long enough.

Seventeenth Convention For the first time in its history the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers will hold its regular Convention in Canada. In 1909, when the Convention was set to be held in Toronto, the fact of the division brought about by the secession movement of 1908 and the possibility of getting the people interested together at some point more centrally located impelled a vote of the members to change the place of the Convention to Chicago. Now, fourteen years later, the belated visit to our Canadian brothers will be made.

The delegates from the States can now bring the sincere felicitation of the members south of the imaginary line to their brothers who are north of it. They greet each other as members of an organization reunited, tried in the fires of secession and not found wanting—an organization no longer fearful of the result of the attempts made to divide them. Seasoned by six years of trial during the secession movement and twenty-five years of continuous struggle with hostile employers, the I. B. E. W. sees ahead the greatest future of any craft in any industry, and intends making use of its economic education in the school of bitter experience, to make itself the most desirable and valuable among the organizations. All the power and strength necessary to this end lies within ourselves.

A united and sincere movement made up of mechanics in the electrical field has no need to require help from any outside source, controlling the greatest agent known to mankind that is now, despite its tremendous advancement, still in its infancy, dealing with those who recognize this as the age of organization, and educating those to whom this great truth is not yet apparent, recognizing the usefulness, worth and rights of every factor that goes to make up our industrial life, refusing to be led from the road to our goal by commercialisms, however rainbow-hued they may be painted by their purveyors, granting to every member absolute freedom in all matters concerning his civil and religious liberties, recognizing all the rights of others and demanding recognition of our rights, asking only that they be true to themselves by being true to others, and that they prove their unionism deep enough to submerge their personal opinion and make it secondary to the decisions of the majority concerned.

In short, real cooperation intelligently selfish, built on the knowledge that real lasting good can come to the individual through the elevation of his fellows as a whole and that no organization can be better than its membership, will make the electrical worker the leading craft of the labor world and an institution paying greater dividends "in wages and conditions" on the capital invested by its members than any institution of any kind now existing.

Just a long pull, and a strong pull, and a pull together.

Where Are They? Many have been the attempts to divide, split up, and tear to pieces the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

With loud voice, burning resolutions, and a strong itch for offices, numerous "leaders" have come forth to hoot and boo those not acting and expressing views to their liking. They had the world know they were out for "principles;" that they knew a better way and a shorter cut, and were determined to fight to the bitter end for the advancement (?) of the workers.

Now we are meeting in regular convention for the seventeenth time, and where are they? On which side are they standing today? Kelly, McAlpine, Paine, Green, Dunn, Gunn, and others—where are they? Where are all the flaming circular letter artists and the impossible things they promised? Where are the leaders of the United Electrical Workers and their Boomerang? Where are all the rest of the bombastic "leaders"—those of Chicago, Detroit, Butte, Seattle, the Pacific Coast, the New England States and Canada—all of those who were going to lead their dupes to victory and industrial paradise, but whose staying powers about equaled that of a snowflake in the devil's domain?

Of course, they "misjudged" things, but who suffered? The answer is simple. The poor dupes they tricked and gulled who now have nothing but the memory of broken promises, treachery, and deception, and who may now start anew to salvage the wrecks.

Yes, this organization has gone through fire. It has had to pay a big price for the disloyalty and treason of the unscrupulous self-seekers and employers' agents. But it has survived and made progress in spite of all efforts to destroy it, and will continue its mission of bringing a better day to those who follow our calling in spite of future efforts of the next crop of wreckers, if there be any—and there will be plenty.

“There is no royal road to anything. One thing at a time, all things in succession. That which grows fast withers as rapidly; that which grows slowly, endures.”—Holland.

Why
International Unions?

Within the last few years many movements have been launched to divide the organizations of the various crafts that go to make up the labor movement of this continent along any lines that the promoters of division believe will appeal to any considerable number of potential followers. The I. W. W., the O. B. U., the W. E. I., the C. E. W., and all other counter movements have had at least one purpose in common:—They all agree that the present labor movement must be destroyed. In this only is there unity of opinion and purpose, as they pretend to differ materially as to what sort of a movement should be built to take its place. This pretense is largely a deceptive mask, for almost invariably each and all are agencies of the exploiters of labor. It is the old story of easy destruction and difficult construction.

One of the many phases of this hysteria is the appeal to national patriotism or national prejudices, and the subtlety of such appeal is obvious. Ordinarily all men will agree that national patriotism is a trait to be commended and fostered in men. No class of men can lay claim to greater or more genuine patriotism than the workers, and no man worthy of the trust of the workers would suggest that they be less loyal to their countries.

Surely the so-called big men of all countries claim to be true and loyal citizens of their respective countries; but their patriotism does not suggest to them that they confine their business activities to their own country. They learned long ago that Capital is international in character and that when nations withdrew or restricted their activities with other nations, Capital suffered.

Witness the harmful and totally unnecessary rates of exchange lately in force that spelled ruin to many. Nations being interdependent as to the things that Industry produces brings recognition to the fact that Industry as well as Capital is international. This being true, it naturally follows that organization of the workers in such Industry must, in order to be successful, assume the same scope and operate internationally.

In 1891 the Electrical Workers formed the National Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, but it was not long before they recognized the fact that the imaginary line between Canada and the United States was only a political border, separating the activities and jurisdiction of the governing bodies of the two great nations, and was in no sense an economic line. The worker on one side of the line did the same kind of work for the same kind of employer, and very frequently for the same employer on the other side of the line; and that while there might be a difference in the actual amount paid per hour, day, or month for such work the wages and conditions on either side of the line did greatly affect the wages and conditions on the other side. And this seemed so plain to them twenty-five years ago that they proceeded to organize the Electrical Workers into the International Brotherhood, and in 1901 changed the title of our organization to its present one.

The ideal border line of the world is that between the two great English-speaking nations here. More than two thousand miles without a gun mounted on it or any kind of fortification erected. The same Capital operating Industry on both sides. The same languages spoken. And yet there are those who would have the workers believe that their interests were not identical and that they would be made stronger by separation. They substitute sophistry for logic; appeal to prejudice rather than patriotism, and finally failing of any result other than a temporary weakening of the force of the organization, find themselves at the stage in their economic education that was passed more than twenty years ago by those who founded the International Brotherhood, and must build anew that which they in their madness of experimentation or cupidity sought to wreck.

The International Labor Movement is here to stay, and with the cooperation of the thinking workers will continue to be the great stabilizing agency that not only can produce results for its members, but will be the greatest factor for amity and good will in all that affects our public life and relations.

The man or woman or group of men or women who advocate division in the ranks of the workers, no matter what excuse, reason, or pretext they may give for doing so, represent the toilers' very worst enemies and are the most valuable allies the great employing interests have.

Patriotism is the garment of the honorable; also the mask of the scoundrel.

A "Sad" Case According to old political school ideas, the workers and farmers of Minnesota are an unruly lot; but we congratulate them just the same. First, they made a lame duck of Kellogg and sent Hendrick Shipstead to the U. S. Senate. Then venerable Knute Nelson died suddenly—'tis said he couldn't stand the shock. Then his petted protege, Governor J. A. O. Preus, let it be known that he would appoint himself to fill the vacancy. But this was too raw. So "Jake" got cold feet and decided to call a special election, "confident that the people would reject socialism, radicalism, and disloyalty."

Then things began to hum; money started pouring into the State in great sums; Senator Moses, trusted "wheel horse," hurried to Minnesota to superintend the job. How the bally-ho men screamed and cried; the flag flappers whined and wailed; the press bellowed, ridiculed and abused; soft-word jugglers filled the air with Preusism and patriotism; well-dressed ladies met with poorly-dressed girls in department stores and tearooms to plead with them to be "respectable" and vote for Preus.

Altogether they "whooped it up" in great style for this handsome boy of privilege who emerged from college in 1906 with the approved brand of canned learning, a polite, full-fledged pretender, all set to make politics a life profession; and who did so well that he has held public office and has been feeding at the public crib every day since he left college. So well was he trained that he never hesitated for a moment to make a strike-breaking agency out of the State government to crush the packing house and other workers and to hurriedly wire Daugherty congratulating and thanking him for securing his injunction against the rail workers.

But somehow the Minnesota farmers and workers couldn't be scared, bluffed, flattered, or coaxed. They refused to be divided by fake prejudices or influenced by cheap gestures and idle promises. So on this occasion they brought a sudden and "sad" end to the "splendid" political career of this well-groomed lackey of organized greed, and by a landslide of votes sent to the U. S. Senate Magnus Johnson, a sturdy farmer who uses common, every-day words and shocks "respectables" by making speeches in his shirt sleeves.

All of which again shows, despite the influence, bribery, and corruption at the command of the reactionaries, the farmers and workers can easily elect anybody they get solidly behind; and when the farmers and workers throughout the nation can be made to see the value of political action and solidarity in as strong a light as do those of Minnesota, the Government and the law-making bodies can be made to function squarely for all the people instead of for the predatory interests who have used these agencies to rob the people of nearly everything of value they possess.

THE CHICAGO POLITICAL CONFERENCE, JULY 3, 4 AND 5, 1923

By O. COOVER, Delegate from Local Union 292, I. B. of E. W.

The recent conference called by the Farmer-Labor party of the United States has given to the workers and farmers in this country the structure on which the national, international and local unions, State federations, district councils and city central bodies, farmers' organizations, political groups, and workers' and farmers' fraternal and sick and death benefit societies, in fact, all workers' and farmers' organizations, can and should build a real political party of, by and for the workers and farmers.

The Federated Farmer-Labor Party, which was formed at the above conference, will hold its second national convention in December of 1923, or January, 1924, for the purpose of adopting a platform and nominating presidential candidates for the 1924 elections.

With the proper interest shown and the same spirit of get-together that was manifest in the Chicago conference the second convention should have thousands of delegates present where only hundreds came to the conference, and with the proper interest I see no reason why at the 1924 elections we cannot make out of this so-called third party, the second or even the first party.

It is for the above reason that I am writing this article and I hope and urge upon the International Officers of our Brotherhood, the delegates to our coming international convention and every member of the Brotherhood, that they take steps to affiliate with the Federated Farmer-Labor Party and let's have at least three or four hundred delegates from our International and its various Local

Unions at the convention in Chicago in December or January

To those brothers who believe what has been said in the public press about there being so much disagreement in the conference or convention, I want to say that there was the usual amount of truth or rather untruth which appears about any move of labor. There were about six hundred delegates representing more than six hundred thousand organized workers and farmers and at no time during the convention was there any serious disagreement or division among the delegates, and only two times during the convention was it necessary for the chairman to ask the delegates to arise so that he could be sure of his decision and both of these occasions were on questions of parliamentary procedure and not on questions of policy.

Now just a few words to those who do not believe a federated party can function. Just parallel this Federated Labor Party on the political field with our federation of economic organizations—the American Federation of Labor—and see if you cannot vision a political federation of all workers' and farmers' organizations and political groups who carry on their own work on the economic and political fields up to the time of nominations and elections and then all throw their complete political strength in on the side of the candidates of this federated party, which is their party, and get some real representatives of labor and the farmers into our parliamentary bodies as the workers have been able to do in England, for instance, through the independent Labor Party. Let's go.

We have a great deal of sympathy but very little respect for the order of intellect that can see no difference between the compulsion of a court and the compulsion of a trade union in the regulation of the employee's relations with the employer.

Bro. Thomas Sheehan, L. U. No. 134

Dedicated to the memory of Brother Thomas Sheehan, of Local Union No. 134, I. B. E. W., and who was also a previous member of Local No. 9.

Brother Sheehan was killed in the station of the Sanitary District, at 31st St. and Western Ave., on July 14, 1923. "With noble heart and smiling face, he lived an honor to his race."

Sad, this story of inscription; swift my thought with sorrow flies
To that City of the Silent where poor Thomas Sheehan lies;
Called forth in the bloom of manhood, from his wife and family,
On the golden page of honor, brightly shines his memory.

Loving hearts now sadly miss him, genial soul of Nature's mold,
In the Celestial Shades of Glory may his spirit be enrolled,
Through the Electrical Workers' Union, long his memory shall shine,
With the deepest flow of sorrow, from his friends in Number Nine.

Like a flash his soul went onward and the body lies at rest,
Here I lay this wreath of cypress o'er his true and manly breast,
Sleep, Tom Sheehan, peace be to you, rings along the wiring line,
From the friends who knew and loved him in One Thirty-Four and Nine.

Deep the condolence we offer, to the dear ones he left here,
Who must bear the bitter sorrow with a silent prayer and tear,
May sweet flowers bloom around him and with love may they entwine,
Like the tender condolences from One Thirty-Four and Nine.

WILL ROGERS EXPLAINS WHY GARY WANTS TIME

Will Rogers, comedian and philosopher, explains why Judge Gary wants time to abolish the twelve-hour workday. In his weekly syndicated article, Mr. Rogers says:

"Now, Mr. Gary says it will take time. You see, a man who has been working for years for 12 to 14 hours a day, and you cut him down to 8, you have a physical wreck on your hands. You take a person who is used to the cool air of a steel furnace for half the 24 hours of each day and bring him into the stuffy atmosphere of outdoors, or a home, and he can't stand it."

DECISIONS OF UNITED STATES RAILROAD LABOR BOARD

UNITED STATES RAILROAD LABOR BOARD

Chicago, Ills., June 29, 1923

Decision No. 1838

Railway Employees' Department, A. F. of L.
(Federated Shop Crafts)

vs.

Gulf Coast Lines

Houston Belt & Terminal Railway Company

Question—Representation of shop employees.

Statement—The evidence shows that the shop employees affiliated with the Railway Employees' Department, A. F. of L. (Federated Shop Crafts) participated in the strike which became effective July 1, 1922, which action the carrier construed as abrogating the rules and working conditions previously entered into between it and the said organization. While the strike was in effect the carrier conducted negotiations and consummated an agreement with a committee representing what was termed the "Association of Shop Crafts." It is shown that on September 30, 1922, a meeting was held between representatives of the striking employees and representatives of the carrier following which the carrier caused the memorandum quoted below to be circulated:

"Memorandum of understanding between W. G. Choate, general manager, Gulf Coast Lines, and committee representing striking employees of the mechanical crafts of the Gulf Coast Lines and the Houston Belt & Terminal Railway Company.

"First. All men now in service of the company will retain their seniority, as established.

"Second. The company will discontinue employing outside men from the date of this agreement, and to reemploy men from the different crafts now on strike to fill its forces, and continue in the future to reemploy such men as vacancies occur, or as additional men may be required.

"Third. The men will fill out applications for employment in the usual manner and those required from the different crafts will be taken into service according to seniority existing June 30, 1922, except that they will not rank any men in service September 30, 1922, and further, that the company reserves the right to reject applications and decline employment of any of the men on strike.

"The company will, upon request, review the case of any man whose application is rejected, and if it finds that an injustice has been done the decision of the company in such cases will be reversed, but it must be distinctly understood, however, that the decision of the general manager in all such cases will be final and accepted by the men parties to this understanding, as well as those whose applications may be rejected.

"Fourth. Agreement between the Gulf Coast Lines and all mechanical crafts, effective September 1, 1922, will be accepted by all men reemployed under this agreement."

The Federated Shop Crafts take the position that the memorandum quoted above resulted in the cancellation of the strike order on these properties and the restoration to service of a number of the former employees, and that they now represent at least 51 per cent of the shop employees and should be recognized as their duly authorized representatives. The Federated Shop Crafts submit to the Railroad Labor Board petitions purporting to show that more than 50 per cent of the employees have designated that organization as their authorized representative in the handling of matters affecting their wages and working conditions. No dispute exists as to the continuation of the present agreement, subject to modification as provided therein.

The carrier takes the position that it has duly negotiated agreements with the Association of Shop Crafts, which agreements it is stated are now in effect; further, that said association has submitted to it petitions showing that a large majority of the shop employees have designated representatives of said association to handle matters affecting their wages and working conditions. The carrier further states that the Federated Shop Crafts have not at any time since the promulgation of the agreement with the Association of Shop Crafts submitted to it evidence showing that a majority of the shop employees desired to change the form of representation, and that their claim to represent the mechanical department employees is not based upon the wishes of the majority of such employees.

Opinion—The evidence clearly shows that there is a dispute relative to the wishes of a majority of the mechanical department employees of the carrier herein named as to representation, it being the claim of the Federated Shop Crafts that they hold authorization from a majority of such employees, while the carrier takes the position that the Association of Shop Crafts with whom an agreement has been negotiated is duly authorized to represent a majority. The Railroad Labor Board has been called upon to decide many cases involving disputes as to representation where the contending parties each claimed to hold the majority of the signatures of those directly interested. While the specific details of these respective cases may have differed somewhat from this particular case, the principle is the same. The Board has in numerous decisions covering cases where a disagreement existed as to the wishes of a majority decided that the only just and reasonable method to determine definitely the wishes of the employees would be to take a secret ballot, thereby eliminating charges of intimidation or coercion usually injected by both parties.

Principle 15, Exhibit B of Decision No. 119, reads as follows:

"The majority of any craft or class of employees shall have the right to determine what organization shall represent members of such craft or class. Such organization shall have the right to make an agreement which shall apply to all employees in such craft or class. No such agreement shall infringe, however, upon the right of employees not members of the organization representing the majority to present grievances either in person or by representatives of their own choice."

Decision.—The Railroad Labor Board decides that a secret ballot shall be taken to definitely determine the wishes of a majority of the shop craft employees on the Gulf Coast Lines and the Houston Belt & Terminal Railway in conformity with the manner prescribed in Decision No. 218 and its addendum, and that conference be held at an early date for the purpose of arranging the details in connection with the distribution, casting, counting, and tabulation of the ballots for the respective crafts.

By order of

BEN W. HOOPER,
Chairman.

Attest:

L. M. PARKER,
Secretary.

UNITED STATES RAILROAD LABOR BOARD
Chicago, Ills., June 29, 1923

Decision No. 1854

Railway Employees' Department, A. F. of L.
(Federated Shop Crafts) vs. Terminal
Railroad Association of St. Louis.

Question.—Application of Interpretation 1 to Decision No. 222.

Statement.—A dispute has arisen between the above-named parties relative to the application of Interpretation 1 to Decision No. 222 and its addenda, which interpretation has reference to rule 6 of said decision:

The employees contend that the second paragraph of rule 6, and question (a) of Interpretation 1 to Decision No. 222 and its addenda, referred exclusively to work performed on Sundays and holidays and distinguished the assignment to work on these days from the assignment on other days in the week; and that that portion of rule 6 reading "regularly assigned by bulletin to Sunday and holiday work," contemplates the bulletining of the Sunday and holiday work as a separate and distinct proposition from the work on week-days. Further, that an employee may exercise his seniority rights and bid in one of these Sunday or holiday positions only without disturbing his week-day assignment, or if working on a position which requires continuous service, may for personal reasons prefer not to work on Sundays and holidays, in which event he should be permitted to retain his position on the week-day assignment and allow some other employee whose regular position does not involve Sunday or holiday work to bid in the Sunday or holiday job and continue on his regular week-day assignment.

The carrier contends that rule 6 recognizes the impracticability of interrupting certain classes of work for the period of a Sunday or holiday, and that employees working under these conditions "will be compensated on the same basis as on week-days." Further, that continuity of service implies continuity of assignment as well, and that the principle of subdividing a seven-day position and assigning one individual to a part of the time and another individual for the balance of the week is not in conformity with the intent of the rule or its interpretation.

Decision.—The position of the employees is not in conformity with the meaning and intent of Interpretation 1 to Decision No. 222 and its addenda. The claim of the employees is therefore denied.

FINANCE

Behind the scenes
I stand.

And move the unseen wires
Controlling
The pigmy marionettes,
Who mouth and mow
Upon the stage of public life;
I control the issues
Of life and death—
The exchanges of the world
Rise or fall

As I desire;
Men spend their lives
In ceaseless, wasteful toil,
That I may satiate my lust
For dominance.

The press is my servant;
Literature, art, and music
Are my vassals;
The capitalist is my bondsman;
Labor leaders unite
To pay me homage;
The church worships my image and superscription;

My word
Is infallible.
At my command
The nations wage war
And incarnadine the earth
With the blood of the innocent;
Peace, at my behest,
In shuddering awe
Unveils her face,
Only to flee again,
That I may reap
A richer harvest
From the grim carnage
Of industrial strife;
I am the invisible dynamo
Of incarnate power
To which
All men pay tribute;
I manipulate credit—
I am the superman.

Editor:

I answered absent last issue because we were right on the point of a strike on the U. R. property and now that point is past and we are up to our eyes in a full fledged strike. That strike is 99.99 per cent perfect. I am only going to give Ike Taylor credit for one one-hundredth of a perfect bunch of loyal, determined, honorable men, and won't count the skate that didn't have the backbone to come in or go out with the boys, and when I say an honorable, determined bunch of men I can also add fair and reasonable and mean just that. They went the limit before they took any action and were always ready and willing to listen to anything right up till the last minute. Moreover, they even picked a time when they could get the public all home and had the interest of the people at heart from the very start, and are not even now, at this writing, anything but peaceable, law-abiding citizens who are demonstrating their worth to their employers, like a mother does her child when she is gone.

For once at least the cooperation they worked for was denied the opportunity of getting an injunction right off the reel, because no one was breaking any law and only executing his right to work or not work, and by the time this goes to press, I hope it will all be over and the strike won and peaceful collective bargaining established.

Brother Jennings has had charge, and aided by worthy and conscientious members of our organization—Bros. Thornhill, chairman of committee; Dan Knoll, business agent, and DeVolk, our president. Let me say they have used every means to make the boys see that violence would get them nothing but injustice out of the kind of law-making courts we have today. Of course it's not easy to stand by and see someone else doing the work you have given a lifetime trying to learn well.

The whole committee, as well as those mentioned, deserve a lot of credit for the work they are doing and they are lending every means within their power to bring it to a speedy and honorable end.

But, if when this is read by the brothers, if you are still out, let me say that all the work a good committee and the best man the Grand Office ever had would amount to naught, if you boys had not done just as you are doing and willing to go on picket duty and follow out instructions just as you have, and though the ones in charge deserve no less credit, still you, as the ones involved, deserve even more and I am confident, even up to this writing, that you will be just as determined to stick and win in the same peaceable manner you went out, even if you read your WORKER and are still out.

Brothers, you are making a remarkable showing; you are building a landmark in the history of Organized Labor; you are demonstrating to a man what a Union Man can be, and though the press has tried to give it an off color, for once you haven't given them anything to write about, and your success is certain because you are not giving the receiver a peg to hang on, even though they have the protection of the Federal Court and are doing all in their power to use it and its influence.

The white collars are only a question of time; they will soon wear out; they can't stand the inhuman amount of work you've placed on them and are incompetent. For any serious break-down they will have to turn to some one soon and the only some one is you.

It would be hoping too much for them to not hire strikebreakers, yet, believe me, they know that not only means trouble, but is the red flag of a general strike. If they do I believe that out of the 6,000 men they hire, even if there are some against us, the majority fully realize that you are fighting their fight, and when the time comes that unfair means is used let them be the ones that use it.

SOLLIDAY,
Press Secretary.

L. U. NO. 5, PITTSBURGH, PA.

Editor:

Local Union No. 5 is at the same old stand and healthier than ever.

Prior to May, 1921, our contractors insisted that we take a 20 per cent reduction in wages, and operate under the open shop. The members could not see either the reduction or the open shop, and instructed the business agent to see that our conditions or our wages were not relegated to the waste basket on May 1, 1921. As a result of those instructions it was necessary for him to take our members away from four shops that insisted on putting into effect the reduction and the open shop. This lasted until May 15, 1921, when the balance of the contractors who were in the Association voted to lock out the balance of our members, and did it by putting notices in their envelopes that on and after May 15, 1921, the wages would be $8 per day and open shop.

Well, none of our members fell for this until about two months after its inception, when our first member deserted us—George Cook, card No. 1061. About the same time C. Eicheldinger, card No. 300681, deserted also. The lockout then proceeded for some time and the contractors centralized their forces and created an employment agency, and lo and behold, who do you suppose was at the head of their agency? None other but David Cable, card No. 116930, our next desertion. That agency died as it was born, in despair. The lockout continued until August 5, 1922, when we signed our present agreement.

The following are the balance of the desertions from our Local Union during the period of strife: L. G. Warneke, T. J. Keilhacker, Walter (Dixie) Wynn, R. A. Schindler, F. J. Wynn, A. M. Kragnes, Chas. Bond, Geo. Cook, J. McKibben, Horace Pollitt, A. W. Ward, J. Archibald, D. Cable, E. Wilson, A. A. Rossman, Wallace Davis, C. Eicheldinger, Banker Beach, Ed. McClosky, H. Speer, W. Zabish, D. Bishop, W. Crawford, W. Seibert, E. E. King, H. Shindehette, W. J. McClosky, S. Rinehart, Gordon Wylie, Tom Pendergast, W. R. Caulkins, Donald Doud, Robt. Thompson, W. E. Rapp.

Following are two affidavits, the contents of which are self explanatory, to those who received circulars condemning Local Union No. 5 and its officers:

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 20, 1923.

To the Officers and Members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and to the General Labor Movement:

As one of a committee of the Pittsburgh Electrical Workers who signed Circular Letters vilifying Local Union No. 5, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and its officers, under the following dates, May 1, 1922, May 15, 1922, July 3, 1922, May 24, 1922, July 20, 1922, and under date of May 1, 1922, as making a statement that I did not desire to be a member of Local Union No. 5.

I, at this time, have come to the conclusion that I was absolutely wrong and made those statements to cover up exactly what I was doing. I went scabbing it on my Local Union and done my best to wreck it entirely.

Therefore, I apologize to the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and to the General Labor Movement, more especially to Local Union No. 5 for what I did to them.

The following are facsimile signatures from out of town brothers, who scabbed the job on us and making re-application to Local Union No. 5. One, Robinson, Local Union No. 712, refused to make application:

We desire to sincerely thank International Vice President G. M. Bugniazet for the services he rendered in bringing our question with the contractors to a point where we succeeded in finishing the job. We are now working under strictly union shop conditions and the wages are $10 per day. Our agreement runs to March 1, 1924.

Our old war horse, J. J. McFadden, arrived home from Placerville, Calif., with the soles of his shoes worn ragged, and the only thing he said good about the place was that the roses were nice, but he could not eat them.

On Friday, June 29, 1923, Local Union No. 5 held its annual election, and during the whole month of June, while nomination for officers was on, all the brothers seemed in good spirits, and all afternoon while the polls were open the good spirits continued. After the outcome of the election and close of the meeting, and installation of the officers by the honorable past president, J. E. Bown, some of the good spirit still existed. At midnight it ran out. The following is the outcome of the election: President, J. Bradley, re-elected; vice president, N. S. Jones, re-elected; recording secretary, M. Getz, re-elected; treasurer, J. Manley; financial secretary, W. G. Shord; foreman, J. J. Duffill, re-elected; inspectors, H. Entrekin, re-elected, and W. D. Beck; trustee, W. J. Kennedy; examining board, H. Penn, C. Bradley, H. Johnston; advisory board, John Bradley, M. Brush, N. S. Jones, W. J. Kennedy, M. E. Joyce, J. W. England, J. R. Williams, E. Templeton, and J. A. Boland; business agent, M. P. Gordan; delegates to convention, W. Rapp, N. S. Jones, J. J. Duffill, and Press Agent M. L. Brush.

Look them over, all "regular fellars," and always on the job.

I will not, at this writing, go into the past history of the Local No. 5, as most of the old members of the Brotherhood know what a game bunch we are. But right now the by-word is "Harmony," and every brother wears that big, happy smile, and the local is healthier in every way for it. I mean, morally, numerically and financially, with a closed shop agreement and most of the brothers working.

Bro. T. J. Mellon accepted the nomination as financial secretary but got cold feet and withdrew from the race. An excuse for him; he is not as young as he was and not quite as game.

Bro. Bob Pounders ("Splutters") made a trip to Canada; he says with a sick man. I wonder if he pretended to be sick, too, because he takes a little medicine once in a while.

Bro. H. H. Penn takes a trip to the Blue Grass Country of Kentucky occasionally, and I have often wondered why. I smell a rat, or to tell the truth, it is not a rat; it has that sweet, mellow smell; guess.

Bro. H. Entrekin is stepping right these days and he is getting fat and sassy, too.

L. U. NO. 22, OMAHA, NEBR.

Editor:

Local No. 22 has a new press secretary, and as a new broom sweeps clean, there will be at least one letter in the WORKER this year.

Local No. 22 had a three and one-half weeks vacation this spring through the insistence of a demand for $10 a day wage, and finally settled on $9 a day and lost three shops. The largest is E. C. Bennett, who still insists that he wants to lose money with his fifteen or sixteen incompetent mechanics.

The open shoppers have perfected an American plan organization for the erection of any size building and Bennett is the electrical link. Two or three smaller shops have not kicked in yet.

As an open shop town, Omaha is the class of the U. S. A. There is not a job that is not unfair to some craft. The Chamber of Commerce and the Builders' Exchange are in the saddle and are getting a free ride at the expense of organized labor and labor is the pony that is furnishing the ride.

The Building Trades Council has degenerated into a sewing society, whose principal business is to gossip about their sister locals. The Anti-Picketing Law prevents picketing and the barber shops, restaurants and theatres, that depend on the public for patronage are taking advantage of it, but at last labor has awoke and this law is to be tested early next month, $2,000 being raised to fight it.

Local No. 22 went on record as not endorsing the Colorado Springs proposition for a home at this time on account of expense and the lean years we have had.

Also, we are not going to be represented at the convention this year, as money is needed at home.

The Omaha C. L. U. has asked for an A. F. of L. organizer in Omaha, but in my opinion what Omaha needs is a stick of dynamite under 90 per cent of the members of organized labor, and two sticks under those who should be in. It seems to me that the only way to clean up the town is a straight building trades strike. Make all jobs either "rat" or fair and a make or break proposition. There is no danger of that, though, as the trades in this vicinity will not hang together long enough to even start a proposition like that, let alone go through with it.

In the political field it is the same thing. Between the "Help your friends and punish your enemies," the "labor and farmer" and the labor politician in the Local, who has a friend to elect, labor solidarity on political questions is a joke.

I did not get up this a. m. with a bad case of indigestion, but if the truth hurts, I hope it hurts enough to do some good.

After six years as business agent, Bro. J. M. Gibb resigned to take a position as city electrical inspector, and if he does as well on his new job as he did on his former one, the city has acquired a good inspector. He takes the well wishes of the entire local with him on his new job. Bro. "Jim" Brown was empowered by the Local as a committee of one to purchase a suitable present for him and with a nice presentation speech as only he is capable of, presented him with a Howard watch, suitably engraved. Brother Gibb has not been late to a meeting or an appointment since.

Local No. 22 gave their annual picnic at Krug Park, July 14. Every one had the best of time and not one single kick on the way the committee, consisting of Brothers Cartwright, Gibb and Howard Bradley, handled the affair.

Brother Ashmusson, our new business agent, has been a member of No. 22 for 22 years and is doing well at his job.

Officers of the Local for the last half of the year are: President, Pickens; vice-president, Johnson; recording secretary;

Sid Slavin; financial secretary and business agent, Ashmusson; treasurer, Gibb.

So much for this time.

RILEY,
Press Secretary.

L. U. NO. 103, BOSTON, MASS.

Editor:

On July 11, at the regular meeting of this Union, it was voted to loan $1,000 to the striking telephone operators of the Telephone Operators Department of the I. B. E. W., who were on strike in New England for an increase in wages and better working conditions. At a special meeting on July 25, it was unanimously voted to levy a $1 assessment on each member to be given to the striking telephone operators. During the past week many conferences have been held and no doubt some understanding will be arrived at for settling this difficulty.

In work, this locality is none too plentiful, although the boys are able to keep moving thus far. There is not much to write about at this time that would interest the membership at large, but by the next issue we hope for something worth while.

Wishing all the best of success.

GEO. E. CAPELLE,
Press Secretary.

L. U. NO. 104, BOSTON, MASS.

Editor:

The summer months are passing and another winter will be here without being able to say we have succeeded in getting a wage increase from any of the companies doing line work in and around Boston. It looked for a while as if we were going to get a favorable break, but as soon as the telephone operators' strike was on and looked as if it were to be a failure, the different companies seemed to change their minds over night.

I won't say the operators' strike is lost, for no matter how it goes, I hope it will be the means of opening the eyes of the men in the secession movement. They surely can now see that all the Bell Telephone Co., and all her subsidiary companies want is to break up the unions and keep their employees fighting among themselves, for they believe, and now they know, that a house divided against itself must fall.

We had a very interesting letter read at one of our meetings lately from Bro. John Kenny, of Wakefield. I have his permission to send it in part to the WORKER. It is the method of procedure taken by the electric companies in general in regard to their desire that employees take stock in the concern, become a member of their club, and are invited to share in various forms of entertainment, which they, as individuals, unconsciously contribute to. The sum and substance of their actions is to eliminate the union and to make the boys feel that they, as stockholders, are part of the inner workings of the concern—"a throb of the great heart," as I have heard it expressed. Is it not reasonable to expect that I, as a stockholder, would not do that which would be detrimental to my interest? Should I desire an advance in wages I am practically handcuffed. Why? Because I have no one to argue for me. I would be considered an outlaw by the company. Who can I place confidence in to attain my desired advance? The company has no one to fear. You know only too well the great inroads the action of the telephone company has made in regard to the Brotherhood. But if each member of the Local will devote a little energy and show a little more interest, we will be able to keep abreast of our employers and maintain what we have and have no hindrance to get what we want.

Fraternally,
D. A. MCGILLIMY,
Press Secretary.

L. U. No. 106, JAMESTOWN, N. Y.

Editor:

As I failed to get a letter in the July WORKER, I will try to make up for it and get one in the August edition. Everybody is working around this burg.

We opened our charter for a month with good success. We took in eleven new members and we have about as many for the meeting tonight. This will give local No. 106 quite a boost, but there are about fifty more that we would like to land. I presume an earthquake or something like it will have to happen before the poor boobies will realize the advantage they will receive if they only would come into the fold, instead of working for about 60 cents per hour, when they should be getting 90 cents or one dollar an hour. Maybe some day they will see their mistake. Here's hoping they do.

We have a lot of trouble with members coming into our jurisdiction and going to work without depositing their travelers or looking up the president or financial secretary of the local. One member from No. 134, of Chicago, was assessed $25 for doing this trick and we intend to do the same with every other member who does likewise.

Now, brothers, we are a small local, but we are fighting for conditions, and we need the support of all traveling members instead of hindering us.

All traveling brothers take notice. If your local pays an added insurance and you don't want to lose it (and I don't blame you) just come up to the meeting and state your case and Local No. 106 will do the right thing by you. Enough said.

A funny thing happened at the last meeting of the examining board. This board met in the same room as did the carpenters' examining board. Our worthy treasurer gave one applicant a set of questions to answer, but the fellow was dumb, and after about fifteen minutes trying to explain what he was to do the fellow said, "I don't know nothing about them questions. I am a carpenter." Well, our worthy treasurer felt like thirty cents. Brother Kinne was to blame, as he sicked him onto the treasurer. Please explain, Brother Kinne.

Brothers Smith and Harding have recovered and are back on their respective jobs.

This new hotel job (12 stories) has started. A Cleveland contractor is doing the work, but the electrical contract is not let yet. Let's hope he is fair at least. This job is to be completed October 1, 1924.

Now in regard to a home for aged line-men, which Local No. 68 is advocating, I personally am in favor of it. It will be a grand thing if it can be arranged satisfactorily. It is a question that will take a lot of thought and planning and if the General Office has the handling of the proposition, I am sure that it will materialize. I dare say it will come up for general discussion on the convention floor. As this will be in the convention number I will close by wishing all the delegates every success, while in Montreal. I will close for now. I beg to remain, Fraternally yours,

W. R. M.
Press Secretary.

L. U. No. 188, CHARLESTON, S. C.

Editor:

Well, brothers, up to the present time I have not heard a thing concerning the water power proposition that was to start here. No doubt it was some pipe dream. Brother Goble was here for a short stay, giving us some dope on the conditions around the country and helping us with the inside men; that is, trying to get them into the Local. We have met with pretty good success so far.

I want to say a few words about the "rough-necks" around here before I give up this job as press secretary. For one, there is Brother Clayton. Here is his cry for the last three weeks, "Dice that have no ears and cannot hear one's pleadings." The "runt," King, and Jones, "the fat boy," are working together now on the trolley truck. They ought to get along fine as both of them are good bull artists.

The news around here is nothing but politics, both candidates for mayor claim to be the friends of labor, but that promise is nothing new to us, for we get them every four years.

Where was No. 382 last month?

Best wishes to all.

J. J. BARRINEAU,
Press Secretary.

Editor:

Perhaps as a sort of introduction and as it is our first contribution to the WORKER it might be well, in order to acquaint our distant brothers with our local, to outline briefly the history from the time of its inception to the present time.

Before the existence of our local our brothers were members of No. 99, of Providence, which, with Pawtucket and the Blackstone Valley, is practically one community. The rapid growth of our city, however, which incidentally is today one of the largest industrial centers in the country in comparison to its size, made it imperative that we form a local of our own. This proposition appealed to the members in no uncertain manner and as a result we obtained a charter and were formally inducted as Local No. 192 of Pawtucket, R. I., thereby becoming one of the great chain of locals throughout the country.

The spirit of progress is thoroughly manifest in our ranks at all times and thanks to the successful efforts of our various officers and the hearty cooperation of the members in every undertaking, we stand today with more than 90 per cent of the workers organized and running on a sound and solid foundation. Our present officers consist of the following brothers: John Cullinan, president; John Duffy, vice president; Andrew Thompson, financial secretary; James Trainor, recording secretary; Frank McCann, treasurer; John B. Cooney, press secretary; Leo Hunt, foreman; Armand Cote, first inspector; Edward Cox, second inspector; A. O. Painter, Edward Randall, and Frank Robinson, trustees. Like their predecessors they are performing the various duties in a manner befitting their office.

We recently had the honor of a visit from Organizer Kaveny, who was sent on from the Grand Office to explain to our brothers and to clear up any misunderstanding that might exist with regard to the insurance. Considering the work he did for us in giving unselfishly of his time, help and effort with regard to other matters aside from the insurance, it would indeed be very ungrateful on our part if we did not take this opportunity to thank him through the columns of the WORKER for the splendid work he performed during his recent visit, and the members of Local No. 192 wish to congratulate the Grand Office in particular and the members of the I. B. E. W. in general, in being so fortunate as to have such an energetic and sincere brother organizer as Brother Kaveny.

We voted at our last meeting to send one delegate to the international convention at Montreal and we sincerely hope that our brother delegates from other locals may meet our representative and that they will find much in common to converse on. This will be the first year that Local No. 192 has sent a delegate and a good many of our brothers seem anxious to be selected. We sometimes wonder if it is because Volstead's arm does not reach that far.

Now that No. 192 has made its initial bow to the WORKER and being caught up with all subject matter until some subsequent month, I beg to remain,

Fraternally yours,

Just a few lines from Local No. 196 to let the boys know that we are still holding meetings at the regular place and are always raring to go. We had the pleasure of meeting Organizer Cleary, and I can say from what we have seen that the organization is lucky to have a man like Cleary. We are having a little trouble making a Mr. Ginswent, of the Light job, believe that wages are going up as well as the price of juice, but I think everything will come out all right just as soon as he learns that the boys mean business.

Sorry to say that we have lost another brother and his name is "Andy" Webber, an old-time street car man. He has given up his card to work with a bunch of "rats" over at the traction company. Never thought that of Andy. Same thing about Luddington. We think he is working over around Elgin. Somehow they all flock over that way when they drop their cards. Maybe they figure it to be the last stop. Of course you brothers at Elgin know that I am not throwing mud at you, because I said that those who drop their cards stop there.

Well it is two degrees hotter than h— here today. Been hot for a month. We are all pulling for cool weather, because it is too hot to work and you know that we have to eat. We had a brother drop in from Local No. 134, of Chicago, and not mentioning any names, this brother laid down a dime and asked for a "scab" cigar. Never asked whether we carried any labeled cigars or not. We have about the largest stock of union-made cigars and tobacco you can find in any city, but he missed them all. So, brothers, whenever you go into a place, even if you don't like the brand, and you make a big noise about how big a union man you are, for the union's sake, ask for the label, because we have lots of union men sitting around and say, "Uh, some union man. I'll bet he never saw a union label." We have a brother in our own local who smokes Union Leader tobacco. But he only believes in signs, I guess. I hope that some day we won't have to ask for the label; that it will be on everything we buy.

Fraternally yours,

SAM. SASSALI,
Press Secretary.

A new pastime has been initiated in Cincinnati—drinking on the run. Soft drink stands have been installed along the sidewalk where your favorite summer beverage can be obtained without loss of time. One has been built in the outer lobby of the Empress Theatre, on Vine Street, which has been doing an exceptionally good business since its opening.

It is a rare case when the Dow Drug Company overlooks location. At present they are fitting up the corner store in the new Gibson, where they promise to open the most modern drug shop in Cincinnati.

Although summer furs for milady do not seem so popular this year, quite a few are noticeable when the weather is hot enough to permit their display. Counted about a dozen in a short time at Fourth and Walnut on an extremely hot Saturday afternoon.

A certain writer has published that New York's most beautiful girls are employed in the Fifth Avenue shops. (I don't suppose it takes a Sherlock Holmes to figure that out.) The same condition exists here and no doubt everywhere else. It was later stated that this publication inspired the scornful sniff among the social debutantes. My opportunities to view social gatherings of the "Greater 400" have been very few and only from the sidelines. But on these occasions I have as yet failed to note the beauty of either face or form that can be seen daily, employed in our department stores, drug stores, cafeterias, etc. I recall the most beautiful girl I ever saw was employed as a stenographer in a large office; a perfect blonde of the natural type, modestly attired, and as I figure 'em, a perfect form. Oh, well, I thought her so attractive it took me about an hour to replace a broken socket on her desk lamp.

The defeat of Speedy Sparks by Billy Ryan in less than one round does not speak well of the general atmosphere around Brownie's training camp, as Sparks was put through most of his training stunts near this location. Keep your eye on Brownie, however, who carries a ticket out of No. 212 and who has all promise of becoming quite prominent in the fight promoting game.

Richmond Street and West Ninth, two of the most prominent streets in Cincy's Ghetto district, furnish many amusing incidents to the transient public. It was in front of a tenement house in this district that I noted the following sign: "Coal ranch for sale."

The blind street beggar who fiddles out an existence at Third and Court streets, Covington, has no regard for the eight-hour day, as he can be noticed early and late working hard for the small compensation received in return for his vigorous efforts. I heard him daily for three weeks when I finally loosened my purse strings. I refer to this incident with no desire to note the vast generosity on my part, but rather to bring out the persistence of the blind fiddler.

One of the worst specimens of human wrecks I have ever seen approached me at Sixth and Vine streets recently, pleading for the price of a drink. I have met this same fellow on an average of about twice a year for the past ten or twelve years. He will remain in Cincinnati no longer than a couple of weeks, after which he disappears for another period of several months. He is hardly past 40 and invariably keeps himself fairly well groomed, but his present health is beyond repair. During the last few years of his life he has chosen as his pals the lowest type of alley bums, who beg, borrow or steal enough to fill the pint bottle which they always carry with them. They immediately retire to some alley to dispose of same and never refuse one another a drink. This fellow has been one of them for a long time; never works, but entirely different from the average of this type. He manages somehow to keep up appearances. I have been told that a certain woman in his life was responsible for his present condition. I am never overlooked on any of his spasmodic visits to Cincinnati as this fellow during his earlier days was a particular friend of mine and I can well remember when he was going as straight as any of us.

The old administration of 212, with a few minor exceptions, was again installed in office for another year, following a very spirited election with much ineffective opposition. The official retirement of Raymond left vacancies in both offices of vice president and chairman of sick committee which will be capably handled by Foster and Fuerstine respectively.

With many thanks to all for the generous support extended me at this same election also very best wishes to the entire bunch now at Montreal I remain,

Have been elected press secretary, so will make an effort to get something from No. 292 into the WORKER each month beginning now. The openshoppers have been having more success in this city than most of us desire, but I do not mean by that that they have been entirely successful. We have lost some members (we believe only temporarily) and are now making an attempt to bring them back into the local. The initiation fee has been dropped to $25 and Brother Alexander, our very efficient financial secretary and business representative, is working quietly to accomplish results, and I believe will get the cooperation of most, if not all, of the members and you may look for a change in the conditions of No. 292 in a short while. Most of the brothers are working, but there is no great amount of work being done and no big jobs going at present. So we ask the brothers to not come this way for awhile any way, and we assure them that when we have places for them we will let them know through the WORKER.

The Ford thing is undecided as yet, but it is anticipated that it will be an open shop job all the way through, and his paternalistic system of good wages and slave-driving methods surely do not make a hit with me. I would much rather see the men organized and getting what they get because they have the power to make him pay, than to have it handed to them a la Ford. It's too easy to take away from them. With best wishes for a successful and progressive convention, I am,

Fraternally,

Last month having slipped by me, I am here again. Better late than never. This one may be a little short, due to the fact that nothing is going on here. However, if a few old soreheads had common sense, I would be inviting about 300 electrical workers to come to Columbia, S. C., to build a new hydro plant to cost about $2,000,000, and about 600 other men could and would be put to work at once. But a few old soreheads want our company, namely, the Columbia Railway Gas and Electric Company, to dig a useless ditch and call it a canal, so a few of them may have a little row boat to ride up and down this useless ditch. They promise a boat line and God knows what all else. The truth of it all is they merely want to put this company to a lot of expense, and make them waste their money. God knows if the canal was already dug there would be no boats on it. All those who have been reading the Columbia Record and State newspapers know this. Now the case has been in the courts for years and will be there years to come, and Columbia will lose a great many big industries because it can not supply power. Still the power is here but undeveloped, and a few soreheaded men refuse to let the company go on and develop it. This is a case of long standing and the company has the

No. 188 woke up and told us the water is salty but no red hills around there. 'Tis true they are all drowned out like No. 188. Come again, brothers, plenty of news in Charleston if it is wet.

Say, you inside men of No. 382, what's the trouble with Brother Bob Thompson? Can't you brothers get him off the 1200 block, Main Street, and show him the union hall?

In the June issue you read that Bro. E. H. Charlesworth and wife would tour the great Northwest. I am sorry to say the brother has called this off, although his coupe is in excellent shape. He and his better half took a flying trip to Glenn Springs, S. C.

Brother L. G. McConnell and his better half have returned from Jacksonville, Fla., where he visited his sick brother, who since has crossed to the other side. He died a true and loyal union man, he being a railroad fireman.

The B. C. Electric Company is all set now and if you want some real armature winding or any motor work done, just let them know and Brother Rotoreau will be on the job. We thank L. U. No. 508 for supplying us a brother who is first class and can handle the job in fine style. Financial Secretary F. B. Green quietly sits on the job but carries on his duties in great style, and if you don't pay your dues and fall by the wayside it will not be his fault. He will read out your name, and if you don't pay, don't get mad; just pay up or shut up.

Brother Green is a humdinger (whatever that means) when he sticks his feet under the financial secretary's desk. He will scratch you one way or another.

Fraternally yours,

L. A. SMITH,

Press Secretary.

I will try to let the members of the I. B. E. W. know how Local Union No. 443 is getting along.

We have had Bro. Frank Swor with us for a short time and wish that he could have stayed with us longer, as he was doing lots of good and helping to get the town organized, but Brother Hull had to have him and he has promised to come back after the convention and finish what he started. Local No. 443 certainly thanks Brother Swor for what good he has done and wishes him every success.

Bro. J. C. Kendrick lost his mother Tuesday, July 24. Local Union No. 443 extends Brother Kendrick heartfelt sympathies for his great loss.

Local Union No. 113 has started the ball for the National Home for Electrical Workers and Local No. 443 is with them, and hopes that the convention will take some action on the line laid out by Local Union No. 113.

Now, brothers, have you ever thought how much each one of us can do to get the right kind of laws passed for organized labor? First get men in office who are fair to organized labor and then when any bill comes up for passage, write to the Senator and Representative what we want. Then if they don't act as they should, don't send them back. When they find out that we remember what they do, they will be careful next time and keep their promises.

There is a little work going on here, but write me before coming and I will let you know the conditions and wages. (Play safety first.)

With best wishes to the officers and members of the I. B. E. W.

No craving for tobacco in any form after you begin taking Tobacco Redeemer. Don't try to quit the tobacco habit unaided. It's often a losing fight against the heavy odds and may mean a serious shock to the nervous system. Let us help the tobacco habit to quit YOU. It will quit you, if you will just take Tobacco Redeemer according to directions. It is marvelously quick and thoroughly reliable.

After finishing the treatment you have absolutely no desire to use tobacco again or to continue the use of the remedy. It makes not a particle of difference how long you have been using tobacco, how much you use or in what form you use it—whether you smoke cigars, cigarettes, pipe, chew plug or fine cut or use snuff, Tobacco Redeemer will positively remove all craving for tobacco in any form in a few days. This we absolutely guarantee in every case or money refunded.

Write today for our free booklet showing the deadly effect of tobacco upon the human system and positive proof that Tobacco Redeemer will quickly free you of the habit.

them, as both locals have been striving along with a small membership since the open shop put its "iron hammer" to us. So you see "United we stand, divided we fall."

Bro. T. H. Lindsey was elected recording secretary to fill the unexpired term of Bro. F. C. Johnson, who has also moved to Houston. I would like to state right here, Local No. 479 wishes Brother Martin and Brother Johnson good luck, but feel that we have lost two good union men (not card men) when they left us.

Well, brothers, Labor Day will soon be here again. Let us all show our strength by taking part in some kind of Labor Day celebration. That is one day on which every union man should celebrate. We are going to stage a picnic and barbecue here. Every organization has pledged its full membership. So let's put our shoulders to the wheel and try to make this one of the greatest days of the year.

Best wishes of success to the International Officers and all local unions.

Yours fraternally,

There isn't much news around here that I haven't told before. The boys are still shoving in the balloney at high speed. We still retain the championship for speed BX. They go at that game as though some demon was after them.

Justice is getting along a little slow, but sure. I see that Mr. Magnus Johnson, of Minnesota, has been elected to the Senate. He is a friend of ours and of everybody who means right. He will be a nice little playmate for Mr. LaFollette.

The newspapers and propagandists are trying to make a monkey out of Mr. Johnson, but they cannot do that, as I happen to know there are no monkeys in that State. I know a fellow who was motoring through Minnesota when his car broke down. So he went over to a fellow who was driving some cattle and asked him if he knew where he could get a monkeywrench. The farm hand said "No, there are no monkeywrenches in this State; just cattle and sheep ranches." So that is how I know.

I hope none of the boys will bawl me out for such nonsense, but I like to have a letter in the WORKER now and then to keep us interested in it.

Yours fraternally,
JOS. CHAMBERS,
Press Secretary.

I think it is the duty of someone from Local Union No. 535 to let the other locals know what we are doing. I guess that someone must be me, as L. U. No. 535 did not elect a press secretary at the last election held on June 27.

We are gradually getting straightened out after being locked out for over two years. We now have 14 shops signed up and 8 "scab" shops and several curbstone outfits that are too ignorant to belong either to the union or to the Contractors' Association.

Am very sorry to say I did not get my letter in the WORKER for July, but I am sure my friends will excuse me when I tell them that I was so busy that I did not have time to write. But, anyway, I thought of it just the same. I am sure that the boys who have drifted off from this district are always glad to hear from Local No. 558. Anyway, we have a much better union now than we have had in the past, but we have lots of room for improvement.

Well, boys, things are quiet around town. Just a few buildings being erected. I suppose people here are waiting on the disposal of this great power plant before they break the ice. It is rumored that there is to be a large hotel built here at Florence right away. We sure do need one or two, and some more first-class eating places. The writer is employed at Wilson Dam, under the direction of Bro. J. D. Sharp, general electric foreman, southside power house, construction division No. 2. Through publicity in our WORKER, Bro. Sharp is receiving letters every day from men who knew him in the years of 1918-19-20. All of this goes to prove that he is loved by those who know him.

Since my last letter they have added to our force about 20 new men; some of them are union men and some are not, but we are trying hard to "pull" them through, but are having a hard time on account of the civil service, you know.

Our new commanding officer is a working man's friend. His name is Lieut. Col. G. R. Spalding. This man believes in doing things regardless of the cost, and take it from me, boys, he is getting value received. What a pleasure it is to work for a man, that when you go for a conference he will sit down and listen to what you have to say, whether he agrees or not. That is his type, and the little officer that we have on the southside is Major John S. Butler, the ring leader from his toes to the top of his head. He is a man that never interferes with the men, and he also is a friend of the laboring men. With these two great officers and their working forces of about 3,400 men, you can bet your boots that they make some show in a month's time.

Best wishes for every brother.

L. U. NO. 567, PORTLAND, ME.

Editor:

Once again I take my pen in hand, etc., to wish you all prosperous times, for since our annual election of officers I find I am commissioned to hand you the same old line for another year. I haven't been able to determine whether it is reward of merit that has occasioned my re-election or whether because I am not much use anywhere else. Very little in this capacity and don't know any better than to keep on playing the goat. However, the boys seemed sincere enough, so I'm accepting them accordingly and expect to represent the local occasionally by some sort of communication.

Our installation of officers was featured by the impressive manner in which Bro. Edward Boulos conducted the ceremony. Brother Boulos, who incidentally has at various times occupied about every office in the local, as well as conferring many other favors, never is taken at any apparent disadvantage, and is at all times a shining example of what a loyal union man should be in principle and attitude.

Bro. Alexander F. Eagles was re-elected President of the Maine State Branch, American Federation of Labor, at their twentieth annual convention held at Augusta recently. He has worked hard in pursuit of his arduous duties in this capacity and his two recommendations to the convention were adopted and immediately became a topic of State-wide discussion. One was "that they take definite action to bring the 48-hour bill to a successful issue at the special election this fall." The other was "that they endeavor to start an organization campaign in this State so that they may enlarge the State Branch through affiliation, making it bigger and better."

There is much opposition to the 48-hour bill. It is backed by strong financial interests and it should be the sworn and solemn duty of each labor organization to recognize this condition as it now exists, to dig down deep and work hard to put this issue over, voicing the sentiment of the convention that it will go broke in its own endeavor.

Officers installed are: President, Wm. Bradford; vice-president, John Meserve; recording secretary, Philip Libby; financial secretary, C. A. Smith; press secretary, M. M. McKenney; treasurer, Wm. Leach; inspectors, Harry Doherty and Geo. Griffin; foreman, Louis Barker; trustee, Chas. Hoehn; business agent, Jos. Weaver; delegate to C. L. U., Al. Eagles; delegate to Montreal convention, Emery Walker; alternate, Al. Eagles; executive board, Walker, Boulos, Leach, Kimball, McCrum, P. V. Libby, Eagles, Cail and Hoehn.

Our retiring president, Emery B. Walker, performed his duty to the last in his own inimitable manner. Always an exponent of ritualistic work, unruffled in demeanor and a conscientious worker for fairness; there are many of us who regret that he could not be prevailed upon to accept another term and it seems fitting that after this somewhat hectic year he should receive the confidence of the boys sufficiently to be elected our delegate to Montreal.

Perhaps the keenest competition in our recent election centered on the nomination for this honor, and it was noticeable that any brother who was nominated did not decline until Brother Hoehn's suggestion that we declare a field day and everyone go seemed a proper solution.

While any of the brothers nominated are entirely capable, some of us entertained a suspicion that Montreal in these dry times may have an added incentive. However, we hold no doubt whatever that Brother Walker's deportment will be above par of the majority of delegates who are on a similar mission. We are confident he will represent us faithfully and bring back glowing reports of the convention of Montreal, as a center, and possibly as an oasis.

We have contributed somewhat toward the support of the telephone workers now on strike. Some of the boys have been doing picket duty and all of us congratulate them on the plucky stand they are making against overwhelming odds, while we shall undoubtedly help them more as occasion presents.

I guess that is about all this time, brothers, and if there is anything more I may need a little for next time, for news is scarce sometimes and I can't even find what there is. Yours fraternally,

M. MCKENNEY,
Press Secretary.

Editor:

Now that the comedy on rail injunction has been complete and one Dawes is raising puppets and the other Daugherty has settled his part forever, I wonder just how long before the strikebreakers on the roads will be out on strike against their present conditions, or what is in store for them. Daugherty may live to see his wonderful (?) work of art ruthlessly forgotten by the very ones now on the roads. He has not settled anything forever, but did succeed with his co-worker, Wilkerson, in chopping one more big notch in the frail timbers that still hold the seed of dissolution of the nation up. A couple of more Taft's, Wilkerson's, Blair's and Busick's on the bench and all the workers will bow down in reverence at the mere mention of the name Judge So-and-So, as though God was before them. The injunction has been applied so frequently now that it will soon be passe; that is so-called judges will be prohibited by law from issuing them. These edicts of a man sitting on the bench depriving other people from their liberty may have to be terminated, as it was in England, and without much doubt that is the most effective way.

If the workers of Connecticut will get together and oust a certain party by the name of Brandegee from Congress and put in a man like LaFollette they will be doing a darn good job and rendering the nation a valuable service. Let's junk the junkers and get back a Government of, by and for the people.

If the strikebreakers are 66 2-3 per cent efficient I hear they are to get a bonus; after that, they probably will strike when they become half as efficient as the former employees.

Our neighbors, L. U. No. 37, are on strike against the conditions that prevailed on the Connecticut Light and Power Co. job and recently one of the would-be line-man got so full of flight or saw such beautiful scenery from a pole he ascended that in order to get back to earth, he required the services of a rope.

The press raves about the Minnesota election, but that does not alter the complexion of Congress; but the election of Johnson does. Wall Street may not like it, but why worry over that?

L. U. NO. 791, LOUISVILLE, KY.

Editor:

It has been some time since the Brotherhood has heard from me. As I said in my last letter to the WORKER, I stepped aside in order to give some of the other brothers a chance to express their opinions, but hearing none, you therefore have to listen to me again for a while.

I have often wondered if we could turn back the time to the remote ages, when human beings worshipped the golden calf and believed that it was their creator. I wonder if we could find such numskull dumbbells as we have found since the railroad strike was inaugurated. I am referring to those men who did not have enough backbone to stand up for their rights and fight for human principle and industrial freedom.

I don't believe we could have found them in the ancient days, as those men did not know any better, and it took Jesus Christ to convert them, and He had to suffer the most horrible death that any one could come to to do it. The men of today have been educated and the world is more civilized, or it should be, but I must say that it is getting more selfish day by day.

No. 791 broke about even on the railroad strike. The strike stopped the erection of the Labor Temple for the time being, but there still remain enough loyal, true blue men to hold up the shop crafts side of the Temple, and when it is completed the dignity of labor shall be maintained and the rights of the toiling masses will be recognized then, for capital will know then that we cannot be whipped.

Getting back to conditions, we have succeeded in placing about 25 of our men who were in good standing back on the L. N. R. R. since the strike was terminated June 1. All the rest of the boys are working at one thing and another. I have joined L. U. No. 70, of the International Brotherhood of Bridge Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, and I am getting along pretty well at the new business.

No. 791 has lost quite a few members by the green ticket route since January 1—12 in all—and one has taken the pink card. That is a record for our Local.

Wake up, No. 112 and No. 369. Let's hear from you through the WORKER at least once a year.

Wishing each and every one of the brotherhood success, I beg to remain.

Fraternally yours,

L. E. HAGAN.

MISCELLANEOUS

SYSTEM COUNCIL NO. 3

GEO. W. WOOMER

THE officials of the "Standard Railroad of the World" (?) are still trying to convince the public that everything is normal on their lines. We wonder how they excuse the figures included in their financial reports, as they are evidently colored in favor of the railroad, if at all, as suggested by Mr. Atterbury in one of his speeches about "the accounting department had not lost its cunning." The following from the New York Times gives their report for June and for the first half of this year:

"The report of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company showed a net operating income of $7,938,580, an increase of $2,266,098 in comparison with a year ago. The largest increase was in freight revenues, which totaled $45,636,211, or $11,302,684 more than last year. Compared to an increase of $13,508,043 in gross operating revenues, the railroad operating expenses increased $1,706,294 for June over the same month last year. The greatest increase in expense was registered in the railway operations, where an additional $5,234,840 was spent this year, while maintenance of equipment was second, with an increase of $3,742,646. In June, $1,434,099 more was spent on maintenance of structures and ways than in the same month last year.

"While June was a favorable month for the Pennsylvania, the net operating income for the first six months was $41,486,060, or a decrease of $279,071, in comparison with the corresponding period last year. Total railway operating revenue for the six-month period was $356,130,371, which is $59,082,728 more than in 1922."

Notice that during the twelfth month of the strike they spent over three millions more on maintenance of equipment than was spent the month prior to the strike being called. This in face of the fact that the Interstate Commerce Commission inspectors find about 85 per cent of the equipment they inspect is in bad order. What are they getting for it? Notice also that while the gross revenue for the first six months of 1923 increased 19.8 per cent over the same period of 1922, the net income for that period decreased about .66 per cent. The relative importance of these figures can be better appreciated when compared with those of some other roads, as for instance the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul reports a net income for the first six months of this year of $6,669,014 compared with $1,617,- 154 during the same period last year, or an increase of $5,051,860, being an increase of over 312 per cent as compared with the Pennsylvania's decrease of .66 per cent. The Milwaukee settled their strike last September; the Pennsylvania refuses to settle. Which policy has paid the largest dividends?

The Pennsylvania has been forced to go to the various schools and colleges in an effort to fill up its shops. We are sorry to say it has been successful to some degree in getting school boys to accept jobs, although many have been forced to quit because of their age and many others quit when they realized what they were doing. This action on the part of the Pennsylvania has caused a circular letter to be issued by Rev. Richard Wallace Hogue, chairman, Committee on Labor of the Church League for Industrial Democracy, addressed to "The College Students in the Shops of the Pennsylvania Railroad" in which he appeals to their sense of fair play and endeavors to place the facts of the controversy before them. One very pointed statement reads as follows:

"During the past several months I have made a study of the issue between the railway shopmen and those railroads which refuse to negotiate with the shopmen on this issue. Among the latter the Pennsylvania is probably the most arbitrary, autocratic and inhuman, from its open defiance of the Labor Board, the Congress, the Supreme Court and the established law to its vicious and provocative spy system, and its denial of the right of free speech and free assemblage to employees in certain outstanding instances. * * * The majority of the railroads have accepted in good faith the rulings of the Labor Board, and have negotiated and signed agreements with the shopmen. The Pennsylvania has resorted to other methods. One of these methods is that of hiring forces of unorganized strike-breakers to take the place of the shopmen. According to the daily press, you have joined these forces. Is not the position in which you are placed an affront to your self-respect, a challenge to your conscience, and an insult to your sense of fair play as well as a deep injury to the human rights of a large group of your fellowmen and their dependent families?"

In the July 25 issue of The Nation magazine there appears three articles with the heading "Company Unions or National Unions?—a Debate." The articles are by Paul Blanshard, field secretary, League for Industrial Democracy; Samuel Rea, president, Pennsylvania Railroad System; and N. P. Good, president, System Federation No. 90, A. F. of L. Mr. Blanshard, being an outsider and having no connection with the railroad or the organization, gives some very interesting facts about things as he found them, one of which we are quoting:

"The railroad has stressed the 'outside agitator' as a cause of disturbance and has sought to eliminate him from the system. It has held that there is a distinct virtue in dealing with men on the payroll of the company and no others. The result has been peculiar. N. P. Good, the able head of System Federation No. 90, of the A. F. of L., is a machinist from the Pennsylvania shops. H. E. Custar, head of the employees' organization in the central region, is a carman from the Pennsylvania shops. Both have offices in Pittsburgh. Both work full time for their respective organizations. It is not likely that either one will work in a Pennsylvania machine shop again for years. But Good is an 'outsider;' Custar is an employee. Why? Good is paid by union dues and is responsible to the labor movement; Custar is on the company's payroll. His salary and expenses are paid by the company."

NECESSITY OF POLITICAL ACTION

By RAY VERN MAPLE, Secretary Indiana Progressive Political Action League.

This is the time of all times when organized labor should get on the non-partisan political field. Bankers, railroad companies, open-shop interests and the politicians are now organizing and getting ready for the coming campaign of 1924. Labor must prepare to meet these forces of reactionism on the political field.

Years ago the leading bankers drew up a program whereby they were to gain control or disrupt the labor organizations of that day. They proposed to call the courts to their aid and foreclose bonds and mortgages and compel the people to submit to their desires through the strong arm of the Government, under control of leading financiers. Have they not now about succeeded in gaining control of the Government? In May, 1920, a secret meeting of some fifty-five leading bankers of the country was held at which time they took action to increase interest rates, curtail credits and secure higher railroad rates. The program they adopted at this meeting stopped business, wrecked farmers and threw 5,000,000 workers on the streets.

In conjunction with them the National Transportation Institute, organized by the railroad companies, is now preparing to go into the primaries and nominate men who will support the Cummins-Esch law, sustain them in their efforts to have rates based on the supposed cost of reproduction value and assist them in their fight against railroad unions.

"Hell and Maria" Dawes and others of his kind are now organizing their so-called minute men of the Constitution for the purpose of going into the primaries and nominating men who will support the open shop. Politicians are busy the country over grooming their horses and preparing to go into the primaries in such a manner that they may retain their control over the people regardless of whether we like it or not.

Labor can no longer maintain its standards and secure its rights alone through industrial action. In the fall of 1919 the coal miners were forced back into the mines without any agreement by the Palmer injunction. The leaders of the transportation brotherhoods were forced to call off their proposed strike in October, 1921, because they foresaw injunctions and court processes that would handicap and embarrass their organizations. All are familiar with the infamous Daugherty injunction against the shop crafts in the fall of 1922. These are forces that cannot be combatted successfully on the industrial field alone. To overcome such we must get on the non-partisan political field 100 per cent.

We have advocated organization on the industrial field for years. Why not carry the same process farther and organize on the non-partisan political field? Our main weakness in the past has been that we have waited too long before becoming active in the primaries. Let's get busy now.

The Indiana Progressive Political Action League is now preparing in Indiana to meet these forces in the primaries of 1924. This organization is the State unit of the National Conference for Progressive Political Action and is organized for the purpose of nominating candidates on one or both old tickets who are 100 per cent for the producers and then uniting at the polls behind such candidates regardless of party. We already have a fine organization built up in Indiana and are moving forward, but we are now making a direct appeal through this paper to all Indiana readers to join us in this movement. We have a membership card for $1 a year. Of this amount 50 cents goes to the county, 25 cents to the District and 25 cents to the State.

We propose to call a State convention in the near future for the purpose of endorsing a candidate for governor. We are vitally interested in the Congressional campaign in this State. We must defeat Moores of the seventh district, Wood of the tenth, Fairfield of the twelfth, and Hickey of the thirteenth by all means. Will you help us? If so, send $1 at once to Ray Vern Maple, secretary, 1301 Naomi Street, Indianapolis, Ind., and a membership card will be returned promptly. I will make the proper distribution of your fee as to county and district funds. You will be supplied with our literature and all necessary information as to candidates and issues and you will have an opportunity to express your choice for endorsements for candidates. We must not forget the candidates for the General Assembly and be sure that we get good men in this body at the next election.

The influence of this organization was felt in the last session of the Legislature of this State. We have been credited as being chiefly instrumental in the election of U. S. Senator Ralston. We showed in 1922 what we can do. Now if we have the organization and finances we can go all the way down the line to success in 1924. By electing Ralston we eliminated the prospects of a sales tax, thereby saving you fifty times as much as the membership card will cost you. Suppose a McAdoo or a LaFollette were in the White House today. Would the shop crafts not be enjoying better conditions on the railroads? Would we have had the Daugherty injunction? If we had had just a few more loyal men in the last Legislature the transportation brotherhoods in this State would have secured their full crew law. We can get them in 1924 if you will help us now. If we had had the right kind of a governor, do you suppose that he would have attempted to force the miners to dig coal at the point of the bayonet? If we can elect men to office who will get us proper conditions without striking, think of the money we can save. Is it not then a business proposition to invest $1 in an organization that is pledged to do these things. This is your movement and we are looking to you to support it. All Indiana readers are urged to send $1 to me at once for your membership card and further particulars.

THE BIG ADVERTISER RULES

There is the reporter, he who spends his life in search of news, the new and the unusual, and who pours his whole soul into his work that you may learn at your ease of the happenings of the world; the reporter who writes his stories as interestingly and as truthfully as he can and yet conform to the "policy" of his newspaper. Back of him is the city editor and the other brands of executives who correct, change or expunge the reporter's copy. These are the direct representatives of the publisher, and after the "news" leaves their hands it can be depended upon not to give offense to his mighty majesty.

And behind the publisher looms the bulky form of the big advertiser.

Originally the sole function of the newspaper was to print the news, and its sole effort was to serve the public and thus constitute itself a great machine for the public weal. Horace Greeley and Charles A. Dana are splendid examples of the type of men who put out this kind of a newspaper, and during their lives their influence was tremendous; for it was known that the columns of their newspapers were not for sale.

Then some bright mind conceived the idea of selling space in his paper to outsiders to tell of their own products, and gradually advertising became a more and more important feature until now it virtually rules the press of the country and tinctures even the news columns themselves, hitherto sacred.

Notice the advertisements in which the large newspapers praise themselves. Do they extol their news and editorial columns, or do they dwell upon the sublime advantages of the paper as an advertising medium?—Exch.

BOTULISM EPIDEMICS

Botulism is due to a poison secreted by certain species of bacteria that are common in some parts of the United States and Canada, but that seem to be nearly harmless unless they are given a chance to produce their poison in foods that have been imperfectly preserved and have been sealed in air-proof receptacles. They cannot live within the animal body and consequently cannot produce their poison there.

Botulism has been known for centuries in parts of Germany, where it was called "sausage poisoning," but the germ was not discovered until 1895; and no cases of it are known to have occurred in the United States until about 1909. Since then, according to a bulletin recently published by the U. S. Public Health Service, 91 single or group outbreaks of botulism have been reported in the United States and Canada. A total of 345 persons have been affected, of whom 213 have died, giving a case mortality of 61.7 per cent.

Of the 91 outbreaks only 30 have been proved bacteriologically or toxicologically to be due to botulism, the others being so adjudged from the symptoms. About two-thirds of the outbreaks (25 proved and 38 not proved to be botulism—were caused by plant food, and about one-third (5 proved and 14 not proved) were caused by animal food.

The following products have been proved or assigned as the particular food in which the germ causing this disease developed in the cases investigated: String beans, home canned, 17; commercially canned, 3; corn, home canned, 9; commercially canned, 1; asparagus, home canned, 5; apricots, home canned, 3; pears, home canned, 2; spinach, home canned, 2; commercially canned, 6; beets, home canned, 1; commercially packed, 2; liquor, home brewed, from old home-canned products, 1; cottage cheese, home prepared, 2; pickled mackerel and herring, home preserved, 1; ham, home cured, 2; commercially cured, 1; sausage, home prepared, 1; commercially prepared, 2; salt pork, home cured, and beef products, home prepared, 3; minced olive relish, commercially canned, 3; ripe olives, commercially pickled and bottled, 7; pork and beans, commercially canned, 1; tomato catsup, commercially bottled, 1; clam juice, commercially bottled, 2; tuna fish, commercially canned, 1; evaporated milk, commercially canned, 1; and minced chicken, commercially prepared, 1.

Spoilage, due to botulism germs, adds the Public Health Service, cannot always be determined by the appearance or odor of the food.

Man is beginning to learn slowly, very slowly, that he is part of a universal brotherhood. From the thralldom of class influence man is emerging. Old institutions must fall, and the religion of the future must be humanitarian, that is to say, that religion which suppresses human misery and tends to produce human happiness. Commercial progress is cementing nations together in the arts of peace.—Frederick Hovenden, in "What is Life?"

Do not assist in keeping down the standard of wages and conditions desired by the members of your organization by patronizing non-union establishments. The only way you can avoid doing this is by purchasing no goods unless they bear the union label. Anything not bearing the label should be considered as the product of non-union labor.

If you want to succeed in the world you must make your own opportunities as you go on. The man who waits for some seventh wave to toss him on dry land will find that the seventh wave is a long time coming. You can commit no greater folly than to sit by the roadside until some one comes along and invites you to ride with him to wealth and influence.—John B. Gough.
